SITUATION

A high pressure system to the far southwest of Fiji is gradually moving east and is expected to generate and direct moderate southerly swells towards Fiji waters which can cause coastal inundation over the southern coastal parts of the group on Friday and Saturday. The high pressure system is expected to direct fresh to strong southeast wind flow over the group till Sunday. A weak trough of low pressure is anticipated to affect the northern and eastern parts of the country on Monday and Tuesday. Another high pressure system is expected to develop to the far southwest of Fiji and direct a southeast wind flow over the country till the end of the forecast period.
